

Oftentimes on the mission field, we tend to 'just make do.' Things break and we patch them together and hope for the best.

That is exactly what we have been doing for over a year with our vehicle: holding our breath as we tried climbing the hill to our home; throwing it in neutral and restarting the engine because it lost power (yes, going down the highway).

When a friend came in January, he recognized the craziness and returned to the states with a mission of getting us a new vehicle. Several churches in South Mississippi joined together to raise the funds. Tonight, the last night of August, Brian was able to pull into our driveway with a 2013 Tacoma! Praise the Lord for this blessing and the help of many friends!
